This work explores mantric and paranoid thought in reference to political de-personalisation through language. There is a regularity here and simple syncopy that has a small glitch, hardly detectable to the eye and perhaps escaping the auditory observation. It is the hiccup that is human, within systems that seemingly forget humanity, creating distances further from reality in purposeless exercises of political manouver. The absurdity of terms such as collateral damage, risk aversion etc surfacing in the everyday subsuming and disabling mental capacities.

Try this at home: a> Cut and paste this text repeatedly into a word document, in the edit section find the tool speech, go to 'start speaking' click and listen, can you pick the glitch. Its not that the computer does not recognise equal but that is an added concept. b> read the words repeatedly from the screen or a sheet of paper, preferably in a monotone voice, can you keep up with the monotony or do your thoughts leap and flail around, then you loose your place. c> write the statement down on a piece of paper, then try and type it looking back and forward or even place it in front of you, try to type it without making one typing error, if you do leave them in and see how the document comes out. Then email me your typed piece (as a jpeg) mistakes and all.

FREE PRESS

Free Press is an open-access publishing house initiated by Sal Randolph at Röda Sten contemporary art center in Göteborg, Sweden, September 16 - October 15, 2006.

For the duration of the project, Free Press will accept all kinds of writing from the public; contributions in any language can be as short as a single word or as long as an encyclopedia and can include any content. All participating manuscripts are published as printed books in the Free Press series, available in the project's library and reading room at Röda Sten, where events and discussions also take place. Additional copies are placed on shelves in local bookstores and libraries. Readers can download books from the website and order them at cost from an internet book printer.
